MEANS ENDS HIS STORY OF INTRIGUE

Tells of Benefits Republican Party Expected From Sale of Whiskey Permits—Investigated by Henry Ford

MENTIONS MELLON

Dear Government League Formed to Show Treasury Department Incompetent to Handle Prohibition Enforcement

Washington, May 29.—Two sessions of the Senate Daugherty investigation today served to let Gaston B. Means, detective, and his most noted informant, complete his alluring story of adventure and intrigue in investigating—at the bequest of the late President Harding, he claims—prohibition enforcement and Secretary Mellon's connection therewith.

With scarcely a mention of his early accounts of money "carried" for Jess Smith, the dead companion of the former attorney general, Means asserted that the funds of the Republican national committee were to have been benefited by whiskey permit sales, and the course of his testimony, drawn in names of senators.

Touching lightly on Mexican revolutionary affairs and other topics, Means asserted that he had investigated Henry Ford by direction of Jess Smith "to get the motive for his anti-Jewish slant and to learn his feelings toward the administration," and Gray Silver, Washington agent of the American Farm Bureau Federation, but he tilted chiefly at Secretary Mellon with reference to liquor questions and the latter issued a statement late in the day declaring Means' testimony "too absurd to deserve notice."

Wanted Change in Control.

Opportunity to cross-examine Means will be given Mr. Daugherty's attorneys Saturday, and he will then return to New York to stand trial in federal court on indictments charging him with taking money from bootleggers, and returned against him, he declared, as a result of his work.

Unperturbed and occasionally oracular, the witness pieced out his story between questions of Senator Jess Smith, for whom he had been functioning as a sort of confidential agent, in August, 1922, described to him, he related, a covert enemy between the department of justice and that of the treasury, under Mr. Mellon. "They," said Means referring to Smith and his friends, wanted to have prohibition enforcement transferred from the treasury to the department of justice in order to control the "whiskey situation."

Means testified that, well supplied with cash, he set up "the Women's Clean Government League" and put H. L. Stoll, a former department of justice investigator and his assistant, in charge with instructions to get in contact with Secretary Mellon, the purpose, he indicated, was to take up prohibition conditions and show the treasury incompetent to handle the "whiskey situation."

Warren S. Stone, president of the Brotherhood ofLocomotive Engineers, said today.

Sauvie Lake, May 29.—Orville Roy, sixteen years old, today climbed a 65-foot tower on the outskirts of this village, grasped a high tension wire carrying 22,000 volts and fell to the ground. He was instantly killed.

Every had been climbing about the tower with two companions.

AS BIG LEAGUERS PLAY IT

Which player receives the throw to second from the catcher on a steal?

Answered by WALTER (RABBIT) MARANVILLE.

Shortstop, Pittsburgh Pirates. A superlative shortstop and one of the most colorful players in the game.

The second baseman is the player who decides whether or not the shortstop or the second baseman is to receive the throw. The man on the second bag is the one who gets the signal from the catcher as the ball is being pitched. For example: with a right-handed batter, the catcher signals for a fast ball.

The law of averages says that right-handed batters in the majority of cases will hit a fast ball toward the right field (there are exceptions), therefore, the shortstop should cover the play unless the right-handed batter is an exception and a dead left-field hitter. Such a play would be the second baseman's, and it is he who must decide, and very quickly, just how to handle it.

Diamond Notes

There were 824 stolen bases in the National league last year to 741 in the American league.

Willie Keeler's record for hitting safely in 44 consecutive games (in the season of 1897) still stands.

Jesse Winters, pitcher, has been sold by the Phillies to the Portland team of the Pacific Coast league.

James Sullivan, pitcher, has been returned by the Cleveland Indians to the Decatur club of the Three-I League.

Carson-Newman college, Tennessee, has one basketball player of exceptionally high standing—seven feet two in his stocking feet.

The Cincinnati Reds were the first professional team. They made their famous tour in 1872. They played 80 games without a defeat.

Deacon Scott is hopping around like a two-year-old this gay young spring. He is visiting grandmamas in all directions and batting better than ever before.

The Reds seem to take kindly to their new manager, Jack Hendricks. All the athletes are polling for him, a condition that never yet hurt the standing of a club in the league anyway.

Despite the fact that Clarence Rowland is doing very well at the managing game, it is said he will return for a managerial berth. Rowland has the spotlight, and the empire goes very little of it.

Larry Gardner's been playing dope here long enough, but Larry continues to be one of the best pitch hitters in the game.

The new defense club has released Steve Rogers, pitcher, to Ware of the Texas association. He was with Ware last year.

But poor Tom got into a sand trap and whiffed about 20 times. Then he lost all the balls he had in a 50 yard water hazard. Milton's Paradise Lost!

DAISIES LACKING AT VASSAR

Poughkeepsie, May 29.—The daisies that are a part of the traditional Vassar dairy chain, carried by the prettiest sophomore at class day exercises have yet to make their appearance. THE FLAG AND THE VETERANS

Possibly because May 30 was the date of the discharge of the last volunteer soldier in the war of the rebellion, General John A. Logan in the spring of 1865 issued a general order directed to the Grand Army of the Republic, fixing the above named day as that on which the members of the Grand Army, of which he was then commander, should assemble for formal observance and for decoration of the graves of fallen heroes. Considerable in number as were the graves at that time, the list of the living heroes was much greater and on that year, and for many years thereafter, there were long lines of veterans marching with erect form and faltering step in the parades. At that time the day seemed distant when the greater part of the work which they had thus willingly undertaken would of necessity be intrusted to others.

Now, however, with more than half a century elapsed—long in fact however it may seem in retrospect—the day which loomed then so far off is with us, and not merely at hand. Bowed and feeble the remaining soldiers of the Civil War are, but there still is in them the spirit of loyalty which took them to the front in the early '60's, which sustained them during the perils of war, and which with every recurring anniversary in all these years has brought them to the place of memory, there to scatter flowers of affection above the sepulchers of comrades in arms. Better than all else, moreover, is the fact that as the number of these soldiers of Grant and Sherman and Hancock and Sheridan and McClellan has grown less, there has grown up about them other generations of men filled with the same spirit, imbued with the same energy, and loyal to the same sentiments and traditions who not only honor the living and dead soldiers of the Civil and other wars but now, whatever be the American crisis in later years to impend, can be trusted to raise the standard of the republic and to "carry on!"

When, therefore, the eye is moistened as the hat is lifted in salute to the colors and to those who sustained them when there were fewer stars in the flag, the pulse will quicken also at sight of those younger, who in the long file of marchers on Memorial day attest by their presence the respect they pay not only to the soldiers of '61' but to all soldiers in all our history, either living or long ago fallen victims in that war with death, from which, saith the Preacher, "There is no discharge." The pulse will quicken, indeed; but better than this there will be rekindled the same spirit which was in the fathers and renewed the same faith which they had in the principles and policies of the republic.

Decoration day is a day of memory, indeed, not only for soldiers of all wars, and for the great deeds which they accomplished, but for the high ideals which they planted, moistering the soil of both continents with the crimson of their blood. Hats off, therefore, to the flag and the veterans!

THE MILFORD LIBRARY

Remarkable Record of Institution Only Twenty-One Weeks Old.

Milford, May 29—Application was made by the trustees this week for registration with the state Regents, who stated that a visit of inspection from headquarters may be expected.

Besides some other equipment, $325 worth of books at fifty cents average value were reported from accession list since January; $150 worth of new books have been added besides those kindly contributed by individuals.

In the twenty-one weeks that the library has been open an average of 115 books have been given out. The non-fiction has been only eight a week. In completing our use of the money given by the state to be reported on before the year of the state department closed in June, about twenty new books have been added. Those with others recently given are now ready to be loaned.

Thirty-five per cent of funds are required to be spent on books other than fiction. Some very fine additions are these: "My Garden of Memory," Kate Douglas Wiggin; "My Book and Heart," Cornelia Harris; "John Brown's Troubles Talk," Walker; "Treasure," Enrico Caruso; "The Way to Success," as Fabens; the financial expert, Beckons; and "The Date Every Girl," as Finley, the educator,reckons.

FROM WEEK'S NEWSPAPERS

The Dangers of Canoeing.
Thus early the canoe is taking its toll of human life. Two persons were drowned at Weehawken, N. J., on Sunday and one had narrow escape. The vacation season is now really under way, although at its very beginning, and it is fitting that a word of warning is sounded for those inclined to be reckless.

Young blood is inclined to be rash, which largely accounts for the fact that drowning victims are generally under 25 years of age.

The canoe is a treacherous means of transportation for those not familiar with its peculiarities and particularly those who are not strong swimmers. No one should venture out in a canoe who cannot swim and none should use it with recklessness. Otherwise fun is converted into tragedy and grief. The same care employed in the use of canoes should feature swimming in the local ponds and streams.—Sheridan Republican.

Apple Trees in Bloom.

On last Saturday, it is estimated, 20,000 visitors flocked to Winchester, Va., to see a million apple trees in full bloom on the occasion of the annual apple-blossom festival, though no more than 10 per cent of the blossoms were out, due to cool and partly cloudy weather that prevailed the past week. In spite of nature's failure to respond, as hoped and expected, the celebration, arranged by a dozen or more committees, carried out a festive program, the like of which, it was declared, had never been attempted in the Shenandoah valley.—Shenandoah Valley New Market.

What You See on a Motor Trip.

Where to buy lumber for a new house. The kind of cigarettes to smoke. The only kind of tires to put on your car.

The names of places where they'll take your roll for fixing your car.

Billboards to the right of you, billboards to the left of you, billboards in front of you and billboards in back of you.

Yep! The scenery is the only thing you don't see.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Veto and Popularity.

Americans like to see their President strong and unafraid, without fear or favor and with mind directed to the common welfare. The veto is one expression of strong personal leadership and it seems to have augmented the influence and popularity of the presidential office, rather than to have diminished it.—Minneapolis Journal.

Protecting Immigrants.

The legislature of the state of New York has recently been engaged in the passing of laws to protect newly-arrived immigrants from the piratical operations of mean sharpers who rob them of their money.—Philadelphia Record.

Our Freakish Weather.

Even Farmer Bliss, the local forecaster, admits that this is "funny" weather. And he deserves sympathy in his resentment against the disposition of impatient people to blame him for it. Beyond a doubt, this is a backward spring.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.
MORE THAN PLAY

Did you ever stop to think when you pass the municipal playground, what a wonderful work the civic authorities are really doing for the youngsters?

The "shirt in" youngster is in the majority there, and the future welfare of the city from a health standpoint is dependent upon him.

He, and the family he begets, will be just that much stronger, physically and morally, for what the playground has done for him.

It is natural for every small animal to play.

Why the mothers of domestic animals such as the dog and cat play with their puppies and kittens. The play will be so vigorous and apparently so fierce at times, that there would appear to be some temper in very often.

The animal mother knows that her offspring must learn to play, to balance itself, to defend itself, to strike when necessary.

This is not only that the health and strength shall be maintained, but that the other qualities essential to an all round life shall be developed.

And so the playground or group games, is a product of the minds of thoughtful men and women, who have foreseen that the crowded life of cities and towns is doing for growing children.

Accordingly, sand piles for the little tots, swings and teeter-totters for those a bit larger, overhead apparatus to keep the spine straight in the long-legged youngsters, and heavier apparatus for the largest boys and girls, are provided.

And the best of all, every youngster from the youngest to the oldest is encouraged to play in the group games.

Precious to the playground idea, only the hardy youngsters, or those athletically inclined, entered into the games.

Now the playground supervisor gets every youngster to take part.

Thus the child gets first a real foundation of health in the development of heart and lungs because all these games involve some running.

Then running, calling as it does for an increased amount of pure blood to the large muscles of the thigh, means that the heart and lungs will get exactly what they need—exercise. No other way under heaven to strengthen them.

Further, in the examination of recruits for the army no young man was ever turned down for having a chest too small for the requirements who had not played any game as a youngster. If his chest was too small it was because very often his parents did not let him play any of the games while he was young.

TO HONOR THE DEAD

Oneonta W.M. O'Dowd Memorial Day
With Parade of Veterans, Soldiers and Civic Organizations and Observance at Riverside Cemetery.

LOCAL NEWS

The Huntington Memorial Library will be closed all day today.

All veterans of the World War are invited to join with Oneonta post of the American Legion in the parade today.

The bake sale held yesterday at the McElroy store by the ladies of the First Presbyterian church was a great success, fully $50 being realized.

The collection at the union memorial service at the Main Street Baptist church Sunday evening amounted to $32.76. It was given to the Women's Relief corps.

Members of the American Legion, and Boy Scouts are asked to meet at the Wilber National bank at 6:45 o'clock this morning to help decorate the graves of soldiers in the cemeteries of the city. Please bring trowels.

The concluding concert of the Company G band at the Oneonta theatre last evening were much appreciated by large audiences. The musicians presented even more finished renditions of the selections used on Wednesday, and a neat sum was realized for its treasury.

Along with the business houses, the banks and post office will of course observe Memorial day. The banks will not open. No delivery of mail will be made either by rural or city carriers, nor will the money order windows be opened at all. Stamp, registry, and general delivery windows will be open from 7:30 until 10 a.m.

Many students and teachers of the Oneonta Normal school, as well as teachers and non-resident pupils of the public schools, embraced the opportunity to return to their homes yesterday for the short holiday afforded by the fact that Decoration day came on Friday. Both schools will resume their regular work on Monday morning.

There seems to be some misunderstanding concerning the part of the school children of the city in today's Memorial parade and exercises. Children of both the public and Normal schools are urged to participate in the parade as well as in the exercises in the cemetery. They will meet at the High school at 10 a.m. and will be assigned places in the parades, which will start from the state armory at promptly 10:30 o'clock.

Considerable comment was occasioned on Memorial day last year by the failure of numerous watchers of the parade to uncover when the colors passed. Such persons should be reminded that the men whom the day honors gave their lives to protect the flag which they fail to respect and that the thinning ranks of veterans marching behind that flag offered their lives that it might wave over a free and united country. No simpler method of respect could be devised than uncovering and standing at attention when the flag goes by.

VETERANS HONOR GUESTS

Members of G. A. R. Present at Luncheon of Oneonta Rotary Club—Rev. John W. Flynn Gives Inspiring Address.

Members of the Grand Army of the Republic were guests of honor at the luncheon yesterday of Oneonta Rotary club and the splendid address of Rev. John W. Flynn and the special musical program made an impression upon the handful of gray haired veterans, as well as upon the members of the club, that will not soon be forgotten.

The veterans had been invited by Roscoe C. Braga to attend the luncheon as its guests and when the entertainment committee was informed of the invitation preparations were immediately made for a special program in honor of the men to whom this particular season of the year means more and more as they steadily advance of time thins their ranks. Jerry B. Wilson, the song leader of the club, had arranged for the singing of patriotic songs and the favor with which the Rotarians entered into the singing of the melodies sacred to the memory of the days of old made a deep impression upon the guests of honor.

The address of Dr. Flynn, a member of Oneonta Kiwanis club and a member of the Rotary club while at Plainfield, N. J., was one of the most eloquent and inspiring ever heard at a Rotary luncheon. Starting with the origin of the observance of Memorial day on May 5, 1865, when General John A. Logan, then national commander of the G. A. R., issued his famous General Orders, No. 11, Dr. Flynn traced the development of the spirit of the day until the present when the day is a legal holiday in 35 states.

In speaking of the days of the Rebellion, when the flower of America's youth went forth to battle against brother and cousin, Dr. Flynn remarked concerning the great events that a little fire may kindle. It was not so much the fact that the southern states were seceding or the fact that the liberty of the negro was at stake that caused the men of the north to respond to Lincoln's appeal for volunteers. It was the rising upon the flag at Fort Sumter that aroused the manhood of the nation and sent its sons forth as avengers of a mortal insult.

Dr. Flynn said that as Memorial day drew near he always thought of three incidents in his life. One was when as a lad he had helped decorate the graves of Union and Confederate lead alike in Baltimore, a city in a border state, where partisan spirit was still apt to crop up. He said that

Hunt's Washington Letter

BY HARRY B. HUNT

NEA Service Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON D. C.—The wine dove dresser had done a good job, and the one perfect peach of a hat in the center stood out like a diamond in a platinum setting.

It was but natural then, that the dark-haired, blue-eyed, thin man who was pawing hesitantly, wavered a moment and then went inside. She hadn't given off every a hat that morning, it was evident, but—when a woman sees a hat she likes there's only one answer.

The clerk obligingly brought the hat from the window. It was tried on. Then half a dozen others were examined but always the customer returned to the first.

"I'll take this one," she said finally, pulling out the perfect peach that had just caught her eye. "Do you accept charge accounts?"

"Not unless we know the customer," said the saleswoman.

The customer hesitated a second, but not long.

"Then perhaps you'd send it C. O. D.," she suggested.

"Certainly. What is the name and address?"

"Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, the White House," was the answer.

Which proves that, when it comes to hats, the First Lady is just as susceptible to the lure of millinery as the lowliest of her servants, whether she has the cash or not.

WASHINGTON has received a journalistic jolt. It's still a bit dizzy from the blow, but is sitting up in a daze waiting for the answers to start.

All of which is the result of the announcement that George Harvey of Peacham, Vt., pickler of presidents and ex-ambassador to the Court of St. James', will take charge on June 1, as "Editorial Director" of the Washington Post.

A SOCIETY HORSE SHOW

A society horse show, the equal of that presented at the Madison Square Garden in New York, is one of the features of the Carl Hagenbeck-Wallace circus, which comes to Oneonta for an afternoon and night performances and grand free street parade in the morning, on Tuesday, June 3.

One of the most startling innovations in tented animals will be the presentation of a true English fox hunt, in which a score of hunters and hounds galloped in the hunt colors, red and white, will follow a large pack of thoroughbred Walker hounds which have been trained to hunt foxes.

TELLS BANKERS TO ADVERTISE

There is no greater medium of education in our daily life than the newspaper, and of all media offered for bank advertising, the columns of the newspapers reach the innermost circles of our population in the most widespread manner, Motley H. Flint, Los Angeles banker, told the conference of the Savings Bank Division, American Bankers Association, held here recently.

"Advertising, one of man's modern selling forces, has found a fixed place in the banking field," Mr. Flint said. This, too, in the face of dire predictions of many old time bankers, who once ridiculed the idea that advertising could be applied to the selling of a service so intangible as that offered by banking institutions. The time was that a bank was satisfied with publishing its statement of condition. That day has been relegated to the past.

"There has been a gratifying response on the part of the public to this new appeal. From it has grown a better understanding by our people of banks and their functions. Where a bank account formerly was the exception it is now the rule. Surely this can be attributed principally to the fact that bankers have come out of their shells and, through advertising, have induced people generally to come into their institutions and learn more about the beneficial services banks have to offer. This can be shown in no better way than by the marvelous growth in savings accounts.

"Astounding sums are being invested annually in bank and financial advertising. I say 'invested' advisedly. It is not merely being spent; it is invested. It is invested for various reasons, and not the least of these is for the purpose of keeping the names of our banks before the people, accompanied by a bit of bank education."

Young Mrs. Green—"My husband is a very influential man in politics," said she. "You don't say."

Young Mrs. Green—"Yes, indeed, George has voted in two presidential elections and . . . the way George voted." — Boston Transcript.

Beauty for Girls

Youth for women—Let me show you how

By Edna Wallace Hopper

For 40 years I have been a famous beauty. Now, at a grandmother's age I am the most talked-about woman in America. My Youth Cream contains products of both lemon and strawberry. Also, the best that science knows to foster and feed the skin texture.

I apply it after my bath. Also, as a night cream. Also, daytime as a powder face. It is ever present to whiten, soften and preserve my skin. I have never known another cream which brought any lasting result. It costs $2.

I clean my skin with my Facial Clay. It is a liquid cleaner which I found long ago in France. Now leading beauty experts everywhere employ it.

It contains no animal, no vegetable, fat. The skin can not absorb it. Nor it reaches the pores and clears the skin to the depths. Normal skin is all the world can claim the skin as this does.

My Facial Youth sells for 25 cents. The identical formula, offered by great beauty experts, is everywhere sold at $1.00.

For Beautiful Hair.

My hair is my greatest glory. It is sleek and in-trous, and grows finer every year. Never have I known a falling hair, dandruff or gray hair.

This is due to my Hair Youth, which France perfected for me. I apply it with an eye dropper, directly to the scalp. It keeps the scalp clean and hair roots stimulated. I have brought beautiful hair to countless friends by giving them this method. It costs 50 cents and $1.00.

The Supreme Cream.

You use creams, no doubt. I spent a fortune to secure the best cold cream and vanishing cream in existence.

Million Americans Go to School of Water Safety

Men, Women and Children Crowding to Join New Kind of Army Waging War on Drowning Accidents Everywhere

POLICEMAN JACK BYRNES of Utica, N. Y., saved seven persons by forcing illuminating gas out of their lungs and pumping in fresh air. Byrnes the night before sat at a lecture on resuscitation and watched the American Red Cross lecturer demonstrate how to use the hands as pumping apparatus to start breathing that has been stopped by suffocation. One lecture plus an intelligent officer in this case preserved a whole family. At Allston, Mass., an ambulance surgeon put Policeman Rogers to work on a woman gas victim, and he had her breathing normally when she was carried into a hospital.

H. P. Midgley, freshman in Furman University, Greenville, S. C., brought his classmate, H. H. Lott, from the bottom of an eight-foot deep swimming pool. The university coach and another student started pumping operations, and Lott came through the experience safely and a life friend of Midgley, his rescuer.

AMERICAN RED CROSS AND BOY SCOUTS LIFE-SAVING CAMPAIGN POSTER.

able loss of life by drowning. Its program embraces widespread circulation of information on water safety, devising of systems of protection, prevention, rescue and resuscitation, organizing of local life-saving corps charged with definite patrol and rescue service, giving leadership to co-operating organizations that present facilities for carrying on instruction in water safety methods. The program has been developed soundly and steadily. Principles of accident prevention have been devised, systems of protection for bathers standardized, and a complete manual on water safety published.

Heavy Toll of Drownings.

The development of a distinctively preventive service, the very opposite of the all-too-common method of waiting and disaster comes and then attempting to set up bars against repeating the past.

The aim of the Red Cross Life-Saving Corps is to eliminate the prevent-this day of co-operation the young women's all-around training is considered incomplete if swimming is not a part of their physical education. Kansas City, Mo., offers an outstanding example. The 300 women experts organized into the Kansas City Corps volunteered to perform lifeguard and instruction duty so the city could maintain a public bathing resort where all the children might enjoy themselves in safety. It is the natural impulse of women to protect the children, which inspires the better among life-saving authorities that the day is not far distant when America's children will learn to swim naturally as they learn to walk.

Recognized by Government.

Recognition after the years' experiences which proved the soundness of the Red Cross purpose to carry out its work of prevention and preservation encourages the belief that in another ten years it will have grown tenfold. The Government has put its seal of approval upon life saving by using the course at the West Point Military Academy and the Annapolis Naval Academy, also by affording instruction under Red Cross experts at camps of the regular army, the reserve officers and the military training centers for civilians.

Men's and women's colleges and State universities equipped with swimming pools, the summer camps of private schools, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls, T. M. C. A., T. W. C. A. boys' clubs, high schools in large cities, athletic clubs and local organizations interested in general community safety measures, are actively supporting this service of training in water safety and life saving under Red Cross auspices in every State.

Army of Women Outswimmers.

Women's increased interest in water sports has modified an array of swimmer girls in girls' camps, playgrounds and various installations making for water to attain a practical accident prevention standard.

It is a fact that in covering the past decade for boys, forty-eight students, over a nation-wide campaign for water safety, with "Every Scout a Swimmer" as their slogan. There are approximately 200,000 "Tone Scouts" not attached to troops and about 100,000 men leaders, so that this movement will reach close to a million, with instruction that is not only based on self-preservation, but on the rescue of others who may be in danger in the water and on the land.

Throughout the country there are today approximately 25,000 men, 2,000 women qualified as watermen, 200 boys and girls qualified by passing the severe examination required to attain the right of proudly wearing the Red Cross emblem of a preserver of life, as life savers, the record and progress

Canteen Is Recovered

62 Years After Battle

CORINTH, Miss.—A Confederate veteran who was removed from the battlefield of Shiloh in 1862 by his comrades has recovered his canteen after 62 years, according to S. P. Swinehart of Elyville, Ark., who was a member of Buell's army.

Two Civil war veterans, a Confederate and a Federalist, met on the battlefield recently. The Confederate veteran told his former comrade of having given his canteen to a soldier in blue, who also was wounded, on the first day of the Battle of Shiloh.

"Here is your canteen," said the old man, unbuttoning his coat.
